

As we enter into the season of Advent we prepare ourselves for the celebration of the birth of our savior.

When you really think about it, really think about it, not just a quick moment, you begin to see how loved you are.

Everyone here has a past they don't want anyone to know. Yet God knows it, and still that doesn't stop, slow down or end the love He has for you.

Who else loves us like that? No one.

Yes parents love their children, grandchildren and friends. Children love as they know how, but Christ never stops for one second loving you beyond anything we can understand.

This is why, every year, we can prepare ourselves for that miracle.

So I encourage you to find some time where you can be alone and just think about what's been done for you. Think about salvation.

Think about eternal life and what it will be like to see Jesus face to face. Doing this will really set the tone for you this season.
